An Overcrowded First Grade Disrupts School Opening

By Karen L. Day

According to the school administration, there were very few problems with the opening of school this year. Yet, the one problem that did occur is of great magnitude—an overcrowded first grade program at South School.

"The concern that I have," said Assistant Superintendent Lois Haslam, "is with the first grade descrepancy." According to elementary school staffing data, South School has three first grade classes, all of which consist of 26 or 27 students each. This is much higher than 16.6 to 22.2 in other Andover first grades.

At the Tuesday night meeting of the School Committee, Haslam suggested the assignment of an aide "to augment that situation," but neither committee members nor parents thought this an adequate solution to the problem.

Parent Ed Accomando, 87 Sunset Rock Road, commented the situation is "grossly inadequate and unfair." He suggested that some parents voluntarily transfer their first graders to Bancroft, which has the lowest student-teacher ratio. In an effort to show the plan could work, Accomando added, "I volunteer my kid."

James Redmond, Andover Education Association president, proposed a first grade teacher be added to the South School staff. This would involve the loss of a music or art room at South to accommodate another entire class. Chairman Susan Poore expressed a lack of interest in hiring more staff.

South Principal Jade Auger said she would opt for giving up the music room, if necessary. The music teacher would then have to "float" from class to class since there is no other available space—not even in the cafeteria or stage areas.

Committeeman Richard Neal commented he "would be agreeable to assigning another teacher at South" by transferring one from Bancroft. He added that even if this were done, the fact that there is really no space available for a teacher without disrupting another program concerned him.

Poore then directed the conversation to the more general issue of overcrowding. "We do have to consider that it (overcrowding) isn't going to go away," she commented, "and will potentially get worse." The forthcoming Master Plan, she added, will not help in the near future, but may address the long-term issue.

Poore continued, commenting that while changing school districts has never been done in the past, the time may now have come to consider it as a viable alternative. Neal agreed, but added such action may help with the current issue, but next year, they will have to deal with overcrowded first and second grade levels.

Another issue to be considered, said Neal, is the feasibility of transportation should such re-districting be done—especially if it is voluntary.

Seven Are Merit Semi-Finalists

Five Andover High students and two Andover residents attending Phillips' Academy are among 15,000 chosen as National Merit Scholarship semifinalists.

The scholarship candidates are chosen on the basis of high Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) scores. The students are eligible for Merit scholarships ranging from $500 to $8000 in the 33rd Annual National Merit Scholarship Corporation Competition. Winners will be announced in April.

To be considered for Merit Scholarships, Semifinalists must first become Finalists by meeting high academic standards, being fully endorsed and recommended by their high schools, attaining high SAT scores, and submitting information about their school and community activities, personal interests, and goals.

Approximately 90 percent of the semifinalists are expected to advance to finalist standing and compete for the scholarships in 1988. About 44 percent of the finalists will receive a Merit Scholarship sponsored by a corporation or business group.

The local Semifinalists from Andover High include the following.

Jose Guerra, son of Angelinoand Zenaida Guerra, 26 Juliette St.Jose is a member of the math team who plans to study economics in college.

Johanna E. Hohn, daughter of Frederick and Marcia Hohn, Pioneer Circle. Johanna writes for the Andover High newspaper and is captain of the swim team.

Kathleen Jayes, daughter of Robert and Dorothy Jayes, 3 Algonquin Ave., also writes for the school paper, and hopes to study writing or social work in college.

Sam Sankar, son of Gowri and Arundhati Sankar, 8 Bellehaven Road, is a member of the Andover High math and science teams. He plans to study me-

The meeting will discuss plans for the year. Topics include the status of the Andover/Lawrence Collaborative Schools, basic skills review and the teacher evaluation process.

Are you interested in women's issues? Come to the initial meeting of the women's issues committee same day, place and time. Susan Broude, chairman of the women's issues committee, and Marjie Dennis, chairman of the education committee, invite current league members and interested others to "Come to either or both meetings; they are in different rooms in the same house. Drop in for ideas and refreshment or come and stay. Your questions and ideas are welcome and needed." The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization dedicated to citizen participation in government. MBTA Funds Bus Service Improvements

The MBTA has come through with $162,000 in aid for the financially troubled Merrimack Bus Company. The state transportation agency agreed this week to help subsidize the cost of the commuter bus lines, which carry hundreds of local residents to and from Boston every day.

State Representative Susan C. Tucker (D-Andover) and Senator Patricia McGovern (D-Lawrence) played key roles in obtaining the monies needed to keep the buses rolling. Tucker organized a meeting between MBTA and Merrimack officials last August after numerous complaints by commuters of poor bus service.

The funds will be used to alleviate the company's operating costs and for maintenance to the buses.

Haggetts Pond Off Limits For Recreation

The Board of Selectmen have passed an ordinance prohibiting ice fishing or ice skating on Haggett's Pond during the winter. "In other words," said Chairman Gerald Silverman, "the pond is off-limits." The action was taken after Robert McQuade, public works director, examined the pond and determined it to be unsafe for any outdoor winter activities. "We're very frightened someone may lose their life on this pond" said Kenneth Mahony, Town Manager.

AIDS Awareness Week Includes Panel Talk

A panel discussion on AIDS featuring town officials and local health experts will be held on October 5 as part of AIDS Awareness Week, which Town Manager Kenneth Mahony said will be "the first action of its kind in the state." AIDS Awareness Week, October 4-10, will be a concentrated effort to educate the Andover community about all phases of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome. The panel discussion will also be televised on local cable television.

Glass Drive Scheduled Saturday

Andover's monthly drive for clear and green recyclable glass bottles and jars will be held Saturday, Sept. 19, in the town hall parking lot on Bartlet Street next to the park. The large metal rolloff collection bin will be placed at the inner end of the lot near the bandstand. Sections of the bin will be clearly marked to separate clear from green glass.

Volunteers from Andover Recycling, Inc. will assist recyclers from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Comp Permit Hearing Tuesday

The Zoning Board of Appeals will be holding a continued public hearing of the "Ballardview Condominiums" affordable housing comprehensive permit proposal next Tuesday, Sept. 22, in the West Junior High School, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The public is encouraged to attend.

Shawsheen Group In Annual Session

The Friends of Shawsheen Neighborhood Association will hold its annual meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 24, at the Lawrence Savings Bank. All Shawsheen residents are invited to attend and join the association.

For those residents who do not have a certificate from the National Register of Historic Places, certificates will be available at the meeting. Shawsheen is a national historic district.

The agenda will include the street lights installation and other subjects of interest to the residents.

St. Robert's To Sponsor Bloodmobile

St. Robert Bellarmine Church, Haggetts Pond Road, Andover, is sponsoring, in conjunction with the American Red Cross, a bloodmobile on Thursday, Oct. 8, from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the church hall. A parish telephone drive is being held this week to sign up donors and develop a computerized list of eligible givers for later blood drives.

Community Service Network

The Massachusetts Department of Education, the Kennedy Library and Phillips Academy in Andover, with funding and support from the Thomas Jefferson Forum in Boston, have joined forces to discuss community service and the role it can play in the education of high school students. A conference scheduled for October 30 and 31, open to teachers, administrators and high school students, will also mark the launching of the Community Service Network of New England, a new non-profit resource for support of service programs.

According to conference sponsors, the gathering is designed to assist schools in creating or improving programs, provide a forum for discussion of community service in a high school curriculum and foster an exchange among professionals. Registration is limited to 35 public schools and 25 private schools; each school is permitted two representatives.

"What is most exciting about this particular gathering is that it will bring together those in public and private schools who are trying, often in an isolated and already overburdened context, to create opportunities for young people to grow through helping others in their communities," commented Richard Gross.

For more information, contact Susan Freedman or Barbara Aschheim, Community Education Office.

Historical Society Develops Programs For Volunteers

By Barbara Thibault

The Andover Historical Society at 97 Main St., announced two programs for new volunteers. A film entitled "Working in Rural New England," produced by Old Sturbridge Village Museum, will be shown Thursday, Sept. 24, at 9 a.m. in the meeting room for any interested new and old school program interpreters or museum guides. At noontime on Wednesday, Sept. 30, there will be a lunch meeting to learn about the many opportunities at the society. Coffee and dessert will be provided.

The fifth grade school program, "Andover at work in the 1820s," is one of the society's most successful educational activities. It serves more than 450 students in October and May. Six volunteers staff this program.

Volunteers work in many capacities. When the founding members established the society in 1911, they set the pace and direction for this organization to develop into a contributing educational facility for the town of Andover and Greater Merrimack Valley. The Andover Historical Society is a group of dedicated people committed to preserving, collecting, exhibiting and interpreting Andover's history. The society's headquarters are at the Amos Blanchard House and Barn Museum. Accredited as a professional institution by the American Association of Museums, its collections are divided into three groups: house, barn and library.

Volunteers assist in collections, grounds, development, preservation, exhibits, public relations, administration and education. Individuals and groups pursue activities in woodworking, genealogy and house histories.

Join the society on the 24th or 30th or call for more information. The office, Underhill Research Library and exhibit galleries are open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Guided tours of the Blanchard House and Barn Museum are available weekdays from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and first Sundays of each month from 2 p.m. to

Andover Family Aids Hospital

Getting to and from St. John's Hospital in Lowell has been made a little easier, thanks to the Ristuccia family of Andover and Value Ford of Lowell.

St. John's Hospital announces a new community service for residents of the Greater Lowell area, the HealthExpress. Beginning Monday, Sept. 21., the new HealthExpress van will take those in need of transportation to St. John's Hospital from their home to the hospital and back again, free.

"This new service is our way of helping those who find it difficult getting to the hospital, whether it's for day sugery, treatment or therapy sessions or pre-admission testing," said Sister Maria Loyola, hospital president.

The HealthExpress will operate Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Reservations must be made and will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. To be eligible to use this service, you must live within a five-mile radius of the hospital and be ambulatory.

Robert and Margaret Watters, above, celebrate 50 years of marriage at the Andover Bible Chapel, of which both are active members, last Sunday. At left, the Watters with their son Robert Jr. in the early '40s. The couple moved to Andover with their son and daughter, Linda, more than 40 years ago. Besides being a selectman for 10 years, Mr. Watters was—and is—involved in a variety of civic activities.

Watters Celebrate Golden Anniversary

By Melissa M. De Meo

Sunday service at the interdenominational Andover Bible Chapel this week was no ordinary event, especially for parishioners Robert and Margaret Watters. The Watters celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary this month, and their colleagues and friends gathered at the chapel to wish them a happy one.

"He's very active in town affairs," said Howard Weitmeyer, who organized the party, explaining why all the hoopla for the couple.

"Active" is putting it mildly when it comes to Robert Watters, a selectman for 10 years, four of which he was the board's chairman. He is a life trustee of Lawrence General Hospital, a former board member of First Essex Savings Bank in Lawrence, former president of the Lawrence Chamber of Commerce and of the Mermack Valley Philharmonic, besides a host of other activities. He also founded the Andover-North Andover YMCA.

Why did he keep so busy?

"He wanted to get away from his wife," Mrs. Watters joked.

"It gets in your blood," Mr. Watters explained, "that feeling of being of service to the town."

The Watters moved to Andover more than 40 years ago with their two young children. Mr. Watters was working at the George W. Dinsmoor Co. in Lawrence, where he started as office boy in 1926 and retired as president 42 years later.

Watters was a member of the town's Industrial Development Commission and the FinanceCommittee before being appointed to finish out the term of Selectman B. Allen Rowland, who resigned from the board in June, 1963 with nine months left to his term. Watters was elected to serve a full three-year term in 1964 and then re-elected in '67 and '70.

"It was a very pleasant feeling (to be re-elected twice)," Watters said. "When I announced my retirement, they tried to persuade me to run again, said I'd get elected again no problem. But I was stubborn. Ten years was enough."

Watters described his years on the board as "the most interesting and pleasant experiences of my life."

Fellow selectmen described him as a gentle, quiet man who rarely lost his temper.

"He was never the type to do much fighting or screaming or yelling," Roger W. Collins told a newspaper reporter when he succeeded Watters as chairman of selectmen in 1973.

The two accomplishments Watters said he looks back on with the most pride are keeping industry away from central Andover and founding the Y.

Raytheon Co., The Gillette Co. and Hewlett-Packard are where they are today partly because of Watters' prompting.

Watters also served as chairman of the committee that raised $1,500 000 to build the Y. at 165 Haverhill St. in 1974. Watters, who had been president of Lawrence's Y., served in various capacities at the new organization, including president.

Watters said one of his favorite non-civic activities was on the Board of Investment of Essex Bank.

"If I ever had another life to live, I'd be a banker," he said. "It keeps you in touch with everything that's going on financially in the whole city."

Watters was born in Ohio, then moved with his family first to Connecticut, then to Methuen, where his father worked at the Arlington Mills. He was stricken with polio at 13, when he had just finished ninth grade. Unable to walk for three years, Watters couldn't finish high school. So he learned typing, shorthand and a little bit of bookkeeping at McIntosh Commercial School in Lawrence.

George Dinsmoor, who started the Lawrence company that makes paper tubes and cores, hired Watters as an office boy. Dinsmoor took a liking to the young Watters, who would eventually become the firm's president and executor of Dinsmoor's will.

On Sept. 4, 1937, Watters married Margaret Graham, a nurse from Methuen. Mrs. Watters, a Simmons College graduate, retired from Lawrence General in 1973 after starting and directing the in-service education program there for 10 years.

The Watters' son, Robert Jr., 47, retired from the U.S. Army as a colonel and is finishing his third of four years on the staff of NATO in Belgium. Their daughter, Linda Isaac, 43, lives near Detroit, Mich., where she manages a law office.

The Watters have six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Watters said his marriage has lasted so long because he and his wife base it on New Testament writings.

"We've had our ups and downs and horizontals," he said. "But never once in 50 years have I ever regretted choosing Margaret to be my wife."

"Can I have that in writing?" Mrs. Watters said with a laugh.

Seminar Focuses On Laity

The emerging role of the laity as leaders in the Catholic Church will be the focus of a special presentation at Merrimack College on Monday, Sept. 21, at 8 p.m. in McQuade Library's Alumni Hall on the North Andover campus.

"Empowering the Laity" is the title of the presentation to be give by Drs. James and Evelyn Whitehead, religious education and ministry consultants, teachers and co-authors of The Emerging Laity: Returning Leadership to the Community of Faith, published in 1986 by Doubleday and Company. The lecture is sponsored by Merrimack's Campus Ministry Center.

As James Whitehead explains, their presentation will "focus on the theological and psychological implications of this transformation of power.

"The Catholic community today is undergoing dramatic transformation. Since Vatican II we have found ourselves challenged to recognize God's power among us in new ways,. Lay Catholics, newly aware of their baptismal gifts of charism and conscience, seek new ways to participate in the community of faith. No longer simple 'children of God' they look to more adult roles and responsibilities in the mission of Jesus Christ."

Awarded Research Fellowship

Evelyn Rabin, Ph.D., of North Andover was recently awarded a $40,000 Postdoctoral/Postresidency Cancer Research Fellowship by the American Cancer Society's Massachusetts Division. The division is funding her work for two years beginning March 1, 1987, as part of a $430,000 investment committed to 1987 research projects in Massachusetts.

Rabin's experiments will be conducted at Tufts University School of Medicine in Boston where she is a research associate in the department of pathology. She is studying the way an immune response is triggered and is looking at the T-cells, or "helper" cells, of the immune system which activate the cells that fight against foreign substances and cancer. Rabin is examining the relationship between certain T-cells and the cells they activate.

The Massachusetts Division of the American Cancer Society supports the research of promising investigators throughout the state. According to Massachusetts Division President David S. Rosenthal, M.D., the division provides initial funding for young researchers, allowing their ideas to flourish.

Recipients of the Postdoctoral/Postresidency Cancer Research Fellowship are awarded a maximum of $40,000 over two years. These fellowships give young scientists, who have recently received their doctoral degrees, the opportunity to gain research experience by working alongside established cancer investigators. Recipients are selected by an American Cancer Society volunteer committee of Massachusetts cancer researchers.

The research program of the American Cancer Society's Massachusetts Division is one of only nine such locally funded programs in the nation. The program also awards one-year cancer research grants to investigators embarking on new fields of research and three-year cancer research scholar awards to young scientists who are beginning to research their own theories. Summer fellowships are offered to undergraduate science students and first-year medical students to encourage them to pursue cancer research careers.

More information about the American Cancer Society's programs of research, education and service to patients is provided in the society's Massachusetts Division annual report. Copies are available from local American Cancer Society offices or by contacting the society's headquarters in Boston.

During the Middle ages, the year began at various dates in different times and places. In England it was not until 1751 that January was restored to its place as first month, as it had been during the Roman era.

ZONING

Whatever shape or size your family happens to be, chances are good that many of them will end up in the kitchen together at one time. People may simply be visiting, without actually getting involved in food preparation. Perhaps one person may be trying to prepare a major meal while another is putting together a quick snack. The answer to these two space conflicts is to think of the kitchen as containing two distinct areas. One is the inner kitchen where the main food preparation, cooking, and washing occurs. There is then a secondary area where people can make coffee or a snack without integrating. When the kitchen is thought of in terms of primary and secondary work zones, the placement of essential equipment be

Five Colby Freshmen On Orientation Trip

Five freshmen from Andover started their college careers at Colby by joining more than 300 classmates on a week-long trek through Maine as part of COOT, the Colby Outdoor Orientation Trip.

COOT, which is designed to introduce incoming students to Maine, Colby and one another, allows groups of 10 freshmen to explore Maine, guided by two experienced student leaders and a member of Colby's faculty or staff. Students choose from among trips for experienced campers, such as a 30-mile hike over a spectacular portion of the Appalachian Trail, to those designed for neophytes, such as an exploration of FDR's beloved Campobello Island. Other trips focus on special activities like canoeing, biking, photography and fishing.

Andover students who participated were Terence McAllistr, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McAllister, 8 Alderbrook Road; Steve Dimitriou, son of Mr. and Mrs. Evangelos Dimitriou, 5 Langley Lane; Michael Schwartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schwarz, 6 Morningside Drive; Scott Brink, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael R. Brink, 10 Olympia Way; and Susan Gerstberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter G. Gerstberger, 12 Lancaster Place.

McAllister and Dimitriou hiked over a 17-mile stretch of the Appalachian Trail through the Barren-Chairback Range, Schwartz climbed and explored Bald Mountain, Brink hiked and canoed in the Maine Northwoods and Gerstberger biked through the Camden Hills.

COOT, now in its 14th year, has made the transition from innovation to tradition at Colby, which is marking its 175th anniversary. Other activities that augment Colby's rigorous liberal arts curriculum are a month of independent work each January; interdisciplinary seminars for freshmen; semester abroad on campuses in France, Germany, Ireland, Spain or the Far East; and student-governed Commons residential life atop Mayflower Hill in one of America's scenic collegiate settings.

Lee Gets Koffman Scholarship

Lance Lee, a 1987 graduate of Andover High School, was awarded the Harry H. Koffman Scholarship by the Joseph Koffman Lodge of B'nai B'rith.

Lee will attend the University of California at Berkeley, where he plans to major in architecture. The scholarship was presented by Atty. Sheldon Fine, president of the Joseph Koffman Lodge.

The Harry H. Koffman scholarship fund was established in memory of Mr. Harry Koffman, a long time Andover resident who was concerned with young people, interested and supportive of their education goals.

The Andover High scholarship committee selected Lee based upon his demonstrated commitment to individual human rights and community affairs. Receipt of the award is contingent upon the candidate's acceptance to an accredited college.

Local Students At Gov. Dummer

Governor Dummer Academy began its 225th year in Byfield with the arrival of 110 new students in grades 9 through 12.

Governor Dummer Academy was founded in 1763 by the will of former Governor William Dummer of the Massachusetts Bay Colony on his summer estate. The Mansion House he built circa 1716 is the home of Headmaster and Mrs. Peter W. Bragdon today; the original schoolhouse, which opened to 28 students in 1763, was restored in 1938 for the school's 175th anniversary.

The academy is the oldest boys' boarding school in continuous existence in North America. Girls were admitted as day students for two periods in the 19th century, then as day students in 1971 and as boarders in 1973. Current students include 200 boys and 147 girls, 228 boarders and 119 day students, from 22 states and 10 countries.

There will anniversary events during the year with Founder's Day celebrated March 1, 1988, in Byfield and simultaneously in cities around the country.

Lynda Bromley, Latin master and women's varsity hockey coach, has been given the additional responsibility of assistant dean of students, while four new faculty members have joined the staff: Perry D. Nelson, a recent graduate of the Harvard Graduate School of Education, as associate director of admissions; Joan R. O'Brien, a social studies intern at Noble and Greenough School last year, teaches history; Antonia C. Prescott, most recently at the Darlington School in Rome, GA, Latin and English; and Irina Okula, from the Brookwood School in Manchester, ceramics and fine arts.

Nelson and O'Brien are former Peace Cops volunteers in West Africa, Nelson in Ghana and O'Brien in Benin. Nelson, who will also coach men's soccer and tennis, was captain of the varsity soccer team at Williams College and All New England. He and his father are former New England father-and-son tennis champions.

Pamela Shaffer of West Newbury is a new advisor of the Black Student Union and Marilyn Diehl, R.N., resident nurse at the academy since 1979 and former summer camp nurse and community health nurse in Georgetown, has been named head nurse.

New students from Andover: William H. Batchelder, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Batchelder, a freshman day student; Adam C. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Brown III, a freshman day student; Catherine D. Burgess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan J. Burgess, a freshman boarder; David C. Corbett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dav d D. Corbett, a freshman day student; Grayson H. Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Cunningham, a sophomore boarder; Merrideth A. Kalil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Kalil, Sr., a freshman boarder; Jason C. LaPointe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rober' K. LaPointe, a freshman boarder; Michael Lastrina, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Lastrina, a sophomore boarder; Jason A. Male, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce M. Male, a sophomore day student; Brian J. Novelline, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Novelline, Jr., a freshman day student: Kevin D. O'Handley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. O'Handley, a sophomore day student; Karen B. Queen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey D. Queen, a freshman boarder; and Elizabeth A. Shea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andarew F. Shea III, a sophomore day student.

From North Andover: Robert Todd Graff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Graff, and Keith J. Himmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Degan, both freshman day students.

Schools Receive Energy Grant

Massachusetts Energy Secretary Sharon M. Pollard, State Senator Patricia McGovern and State Representative Susan Tucker have announced that Andover Public Schools have been selected to receive a grant for energy conservation improvements in the Shawheen Elementary School and the Sanborn Elementary School in the amount of $15,022. The grant is being awarded under the federally-funded institutional conservation program of the Massachusetts Executive Office of Energy Resources.

The program provides matching grants to public and private non-profit schools and hospitals to provide these non-tax-paying institutions with the financial incentive to make energy conservation investments and ultimately reduce their energy consumption. The grants are used to fund the purchase and installation of cost-effetive energy conservation measures in schools.

Settling Personal Injury Claims

Persons injured in accidents are often contacted directly by an insurance company and asked to give details of the accident or discuss settlement. Talking to an insurance adjuster yourself or settling your claim before you understand its true value can be a very costly mistake. It is wise to consult an attorney as soon as possible after the accident and to have your attorney assist you in responding to all questions concerning the accident.

Contact Neil E. Onerheim or John S. Wessler, who represent accident victims seeking compensation for their injuries.

Andover Students Gain Honors

Several Andover students received scholarships and honors from Central Catholic High School in Lawrence for their scholastic achievements fourth quarter of last school year.

According to the school's principal, Brother Kenneth V. Hogan, the top three students in each year level based on class rank receive $100 in academic scholarships. Also, one student in each year level is selected by the faculty to receive a $100 principal's scholarship. Selection for this scholarship is based on involvement in school activities, school spirit, devotedness and loyalty. The award is an incentive to all students and doesn't always go to honor students.

Permanent, or four-year half tuition, scholarships are given to students who must maintain good academic standings to continue to receive the scholarship.

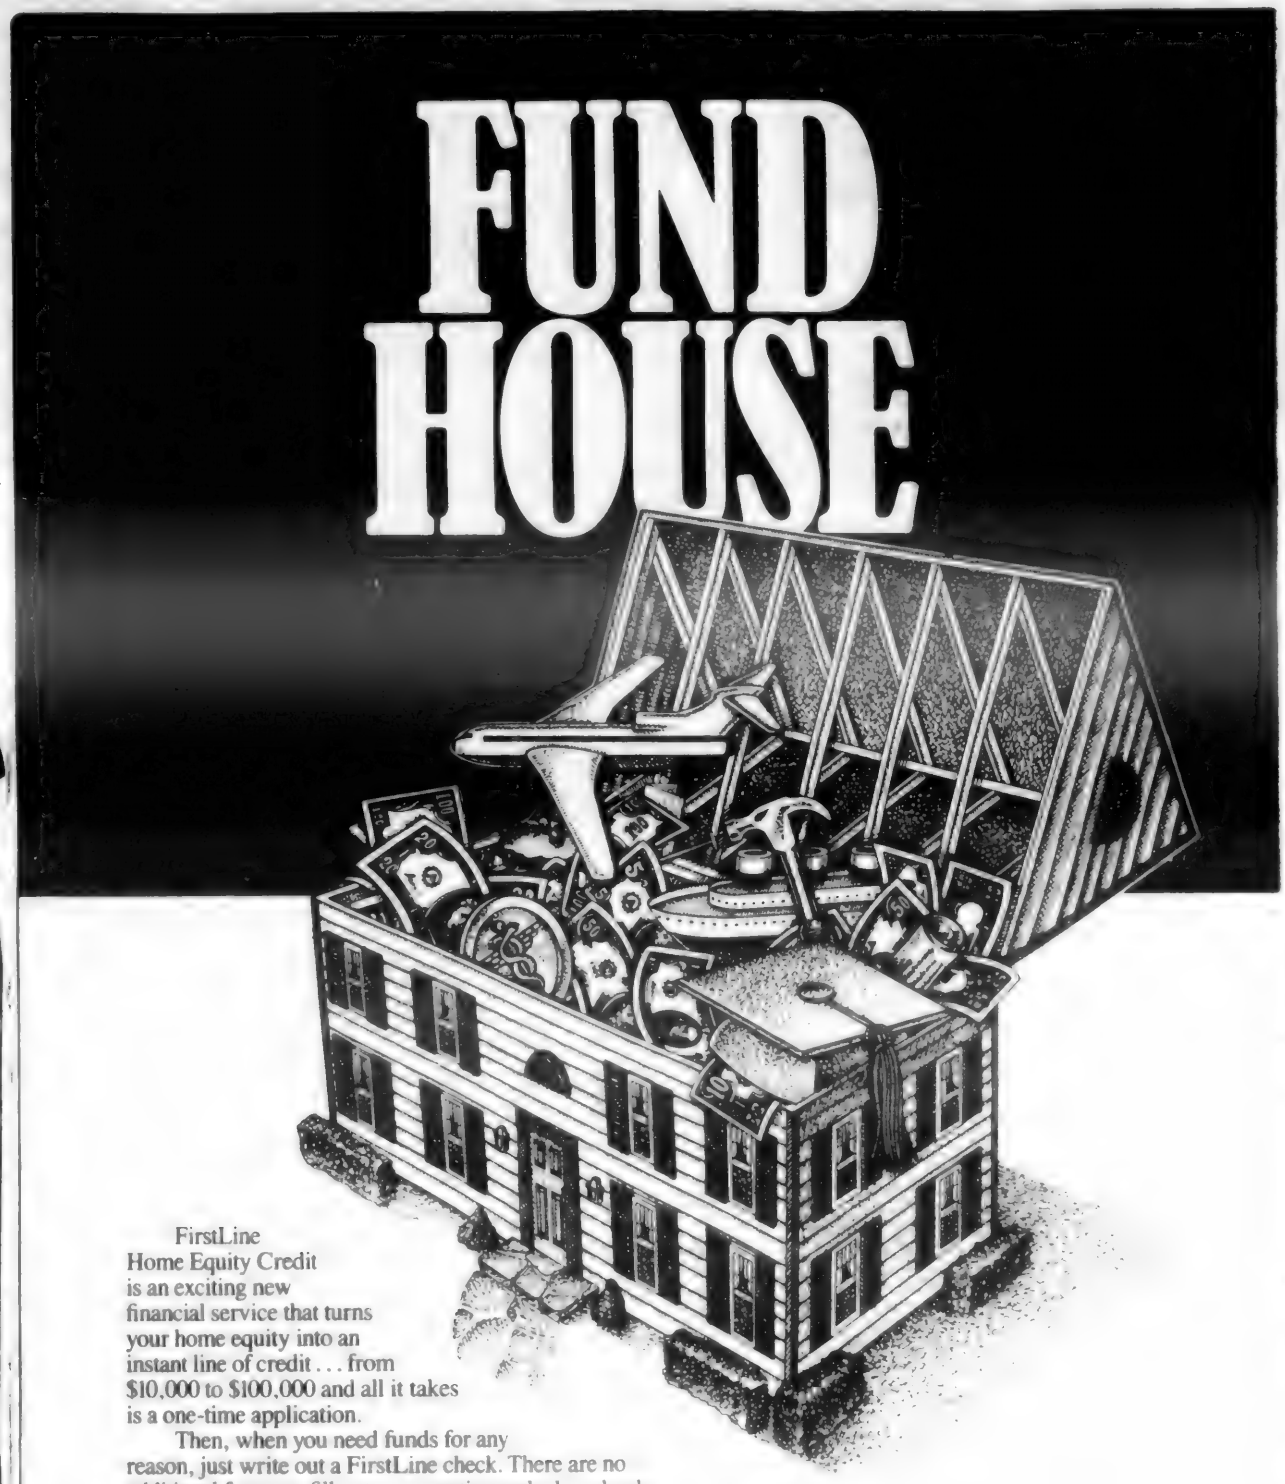

Distinguished honors are given to a student who gets no grade below "A"; high honors go to the student who gets no grade below a "B," with the exception of one "C+."

'Photography Within' Exhibit Opens

Erica Adams' The Turning Point, Polaroid large format print.

"Photography Within," an exhibition including works by Erica Adams, Orly Azran, Steve Gildea and Denny Moers opens Friday, Sept. 18, at the Addison Gallery of American Art on the Phillips Academy campus in Andover. A reception for the artists will be held in the gallery from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The exhibition and reception are open to the public free of charge.

Increasingly, artists have been combining media or processes which originally owned separate territories. Photography, particularly, has been subject to a wide range of manipulation by photographers, painters and sculptors. Examples include Henry Peach Robinson's photographic genre paintings in the 1870s, Maholy-Nagy and Mann Ray's collages and rayographs from the 1920s, Hans Bellmer's "set pieces" in the 1930s and works by Robert Heinekin, Lucas Samaras and Robert Rauschenberg in the 1950s through the '70s. "Photography Within" presents work by four young local artists who utilize photography in different ways as an essential component in their work.

Of the four, the work of Moers remains the most characteristically photographic. His images are selectively fogged to eliminate component areas and then variously toned to complete the works.

Adams paints on original Polaroid prints, rephotographs them to integrate the paint surface with the photographic surface and enlarges the final image with the 20" x 24" Polaroid system.

Gildea photographs the moon-producing black

'Nutcracker' Auditions Scheduled

A total of 180 children will be selected for roles in Tchiakovsky's Nutcracker, to be staged by the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre at the Collins Center for the Performing Arts December 4, 5 and 6.

Auditions will be held at the Collins Center on Shawsheen Road Wednesday, Sept. 30.

Children must have at least one year of dance training and be available for rehearsal and performance dates. Personable, energetic children, elementary through high school, are invited. Members of the Pittsburgh Ballet faculty will conduct auditions. Parents must accompany their children.

Children 4 feet up to 5 feet in height will auditioned at 4:30 p.m.; children 5 feet tall and above will be auditioned at 7:30 p.m. Girls should wear pink tights, black leotard and ballet shoes; boys, black tights, white t-shirt and ballet shoes.

The Pittsburgh Ballet production of The Nutcracker is based on the original choreography of George Balanchine and uses children in the party scene of Act I as soldiers, angels and other roles.

and white telescopic prints which he subsequently paints with oil. The results are imagined yet eerily real sensations of outer space.

Azran's complex environmental constructions are lit by slide projections which provide subliminal clues to possible interpretations of the three-dimensional structures of her work. She coats ceramic artifact-like objects with photographic emulsion to photographically encode their surfaces before imbedding the objects in the wall of her constructions.

In the work of all these artists, photography is a presence synthesized with other image making methods. A tension between the kind of reality that photography establishes plays against the romance of the hand to create rich metaphors and new insights into the possibilities for making art which mediates aspects of the structure of Modernism and the spirit of Post Modernism.

The exhibit will be shown through November 29. Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Humorous Classical Works To Open Concert Series

The lighter, funnier side of classical music will open the 1987-88 College Concert Series at Merrimack College in North Andover on Saturday, Sept. 26, at 8 p.m. in the Collegiate Church of Christ the Teacher.

Jayne West, soprano, William Cotten, tenor, and Robert Honeysucker, baritone, will join the Pythagorean String Quintet for a concert of light vocal chamber music. The program will include "The Music Master" by Pergolesi, "The Coffee Cantata" by Bach and "A Little Nightmare Music" by P.D.Q. Bach, all sung in English.

"The Music Master" is a hilarious opera buffa, while "Cantata" is a humorous work on the evils of drinking coffee, especially by women. The farcical opera "Nightmare Music" and its composer are the creation of Peter Schickele.

West has appeared as a soloist with many of Boston's finest musical organizations, including the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Handel and Haydn Society, the Cantata Singers, the Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra and the Master Singers of Worcester. Winner of the prestigious Tanglewood Fellowship in 1984 and 1985, she has performed in the operas "La Vie Parisienne," "The Rake's Progress," "Hansel and Gretel" and in the world premiere performance of the Philip Glass/Robert Moran opera "The Juniper Tree" at the American Repertory Theatre. She will make her debut with the Connecticut Grand Opera as Anna in Verdi's "Nabucco" later this year and will be seen as Miss Jessel in "The Turn of the Screw" with the Boston Lyric Opera.

Honeysucker, a native of Memphis, created the role of Deadalus in the world premiere of Paul Earl's "Icarus" at the Brucknerfest in Linz, Austria. Winner of the National Opera Association Artists Award in 1983, he has performed with the Opera Company of Boston, the American Repertory Theatre, the St. Paul Opera Company, the Boston Lyric Opera, as well as with many of the major symphony orchestras. Last year Honeysucker sang with the Pittsburgh Symphony opening the Great Woods Festival and toured Australia in concert and recital.

Cotton, a native of Mississippi, attended the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston. He has performed as a soloist with the June Opera Festival of New Jersey, the Boston Concert Opera, the New Hampshire Symphony and the Mondadnock Music Festival in New Hampshire. His operatic roles include the miller in the world premiere of "The Juniper Tree." This summer Cotten performed in the operas "L'Ormindo," "The Music Shop" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at Wolf Trap in Washington, D.C.

Benjamin Cogen, Robin Esch, Bina Breitner, Susan Randazzo and Kevin Green will also perform with the Pythagorean String Quintet.

This year's concert series will include a concert of Christmas music by the Treble Chorus of New England on Sunday afternoon, a performance of "Das Knaben Wunderhorn" ("The Children's Magic Horn") by Jayne West and the Indian Hill Chamber Orchestra on Friday, March 4, and a May 7 performance of Sir Edward Elgar's "Dream of Gerontius," based on the poem by Cardinal Newman.

Season subscriptions, admission to all four concerts, are available. Special discount tickets are available to students and senior citizens.

For a calendar and ticket information, call or write the Concert Series Office, Merrimack College, North Andover, Mass. 01845.

Thursday Concert Series Begins

Merrimack College, North Andover, announces the inauguration of a concert series on Thursday afternoons at 3:30 p.m. in the college church auditorium. These concerts will consist of wind ensembles, string quartets, voice, piano, lectures and other recitls. There is no charge and the public is invited.

The first concert will be held September 17. The artist will be the pianist Randall Hodgkinson. His program will consist of Partita #5 in G major by Bach; Piano sonata #2, opus 64 by Shostakovich; Scherzo in E major, opus 54 by Chopin and Paraphrase on themes from "Die Fledermaus" by Strauss/Godowski.

In 1975, on a fellowship to Tanglewood, Hodgkinson was soloist under Leonard Bernstein and Gunther Schuller. He was a winner of the Johann Sebastian Bach International Competition and the Portland Young Artists Competition. He made his debut in 1981 with the Philadelphia Orchestra as soloist in the MacDowell Second Concerto.

As a member of Boston Musica Viva, Hodgkinson has recorded with Nonesuch Records and has made solo recordings with New World Records. He is on the faculty of the New England Conservatory and the Longy School of Music.

Following this performance, Hodgkinson will embark on a national concert tour.

Final Recital In Methuen

Christopher Herrick will be the recitalist at the final recital of the season at the Methuen Memorial Music Hall at 8 p.m. on September 30.

Herrick will play Sortie in B flat Major, Louis James Alfred Lefebure-Wely; Incantation pour un jour Saint, Jean Langlais; Fantaisie sur deux Melodies Anglaises, Op. 43, Alexandre Guilmant; Serenade, Op. 22 and variations on a theme of Herbert Howells, Op. 87, Derek Bourgeois; Symphony in G minor, Op. 35, Edwin H. Lemare.

Herrick has worked and studied in some of Britain's finest musical establishments. Before his ten years at Westminster Abbey, he was assistant organist at St. Paul's Cathedral where he had sung in the choir as a boy. After receiving a music degree at Oxford University, Herrick was awarded a post-graduate scholarship to the Royal College of Music in London, enabling him to study conducting with Sir Adrian Boult. He conducts two choirs in London that perform the major choral repertoire.

Eleven years after Searle's death, during which time the organ hall passed through various hands, Ernest M. Skinner (1866-1960) acquired title to the hall and sourrounding properties. He was one of the most influential American organ builders of that time and presented great choral works and organ recitals. He established the Ernest M. Skinner and Son Company in 1936. Unfortunately, the wooden organ factory was destroyed by fire in 1943.

The Music Hall is located on Broadway (Route 28), in Methuen.

Bancroft Principal Iora Alexander questioned whether or not her school would be the only one considered to accept transfer first graders and was told it would not. The committee would hope to encourage parents on the outskirts of the South School district to transfer their children to the nearest other district, whether it be Bancroft or Sanborn, which also has lower student-teacher ratios.

Poore commented "There are a multitude of solutions, some horrible, some distasteful," but they would all have to be considered.

Committeemen Neal and Donald Robb expressed opinions that the transfer of a teacher would disrupt fewer students in the long run, even though it would cost South School its music room. Haslam agreed that "The faster it is dealt with, the better for the students."

Since the committee members were unsure of the logistical impact of either moving students or a teacher, they directed the administration to investigate the two options and make a determination by tomorrow afternoon, (Friday). The plan would then be implemented by next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The administration will be contacting the parents of first-graders to get a feeling for whether or not enough will volunteer. Another consideration is whether or not these students will simply transfer for this year or their entire elementary school career. This would depend a great deal on future impact on space and student-teacher ratios. "It will be an interesting telephone routine," mused Seifert.

To avoid such future problems, Neal suggested the committee place a cap on how many students can attend a specific grade level in a specific school. Anyone moving into a neighborhood after the cap figure has been reached, would then be informed their children will have to attend school in a neighboring district.

Charles Habib, 29 Bannister Road, suggested yet one more solution to the current classroom crunch—portable classrooms, measuring 24 feet by 40 feet. But according to Seifert, the cost would be overly exhorbitant, even if they were only rented for a short period of time.

In closing the discussion for the evening, Poore commented "Nothing is ruled out of consideration."

The administration will decide the best way in which to deal with the current problem by tommorrow and the committee will be placing the general issue of overcrowding and how to handle it on an upcoming agenda.

William A. Doherty, School, Civic Leader, Businessman Dies

William A. Doherty, 82, 15 Chestnut St., Andover, believed to have held the record for serving longest as a member of a municipal school committee in this state, died Wednesday morning following a long illness.

Mr. Doherty ran for the Andover School Committee in 1931 and was re-elected continuously until his retirement in 1970 after 39 years of service during which time he missed only one meeting. His intent was not just to be involved in Andover education, but also to open school committee meetings to the public since at that time reporters were banned from meetings.

He had covered the town of Andover for the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune from 1926 to 1948.

Following his retirement from the school committee in 1970, the board named the Central Elementary School in his honor, later honoring him with the naming of the Doherty Junior High School, when the building was rebuilt as a junior high.

Among the first graduating class of St. Augustines School, he attended St. Rita's Hall, Villanova, Pa., and graduated from Punchard High School in 1925.

In 1934 he established the Doherty Insurance and Real Estate Agencies which are still family-owned and operated.

He was a most active supporter of the Punchard All-Girls Band from its original organization in 1939. Mr. Doherty was past president of the Punchard Alumni Association; past president, Greater Lawrence Insurance Agents Association; former director, Independent Insurance Agents of Massachusetts; former grand knight, Andover Council 1078, Knights of Columbus; member, Father O'Donnell Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus; member, Castille Caravan, Order of Alhambra; member and past president St. Augustine's Holy Name Society.

In 1970, Mr. Doherty was awarded an honorary doctoral degree from Merrimack College. In 1982 he was honored by the Augustinian Order when he became a lay-affiliate of the order.

He was a member of St. Augustine's parish where he served daily Mass and served as lector up until his most recent illness.

A charter member and past president of the Andover Service Club, Mr. Doherty also held membership in Men of Merrimack, Bon Secour Guild, Andover Lions Club, Andover Lodge of Elks and the Bosox club.

He is survived by his wife, Muriel (Shaw) Doherty; a son, Thomas M.; a sister, Mrs. Richard (Margaret) Chamber of Philadelphia, Penn.; brother, Joseph B. of Palm Beach, Fla., and James D. of Andover, his business partner of over 48 years; 13 nieces and nephews.

A Mass will be offered Saturday at 12 noon at St. Augustine's Church, 43 Essex St., Andover. Burial wil be in St. Augustine Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Edgerly and Bessom Funeral Home, 33 Pearson St., Andover Friday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Born in Ashton-under-Lyne, England, Florence came to Andover at the age of four. She lived here until 1985, when she moved to the Edgewater Point Estates in Boca Raton.

She was a member of Christ Episcopal Church, and worked in the Andover public schools as a worker, manager and director of food services for 30 years until her retirement in 1965.

The mother of the late James Hyde McGrath, she is survived by a son, Dr. John W. McGrath of Eastham, and four grandchildren.

Burial will be in Spring Grove Cemetery. Arrangements are by the Dewhirst-Conte Funeral Home.

Donations to the Florence McGrath food service scholarship may be made c/o Richard Baron, Director, at Andover High School, Shawsheen Road, Andover.

Mr. Brightman was an Army veteran of World War II and a member of Christ Church, Andover.

He is survived by his wife, Irene (Byrom) Brightman; a daughter, Mrs. Mitchell (Carol) Johnson of Connecticut; sisters, Thelma Flewwellin of St. Croix, Virgin Islands, and Mrs. Raymond (Alice) Jenkins of Bradford; a brother, Victor P. of North Andover; granddaughters, Sarah and Abbey Johnson, both of Connecticut; and several nieces and nephews.

A Memorial service was held Sunday, Sept. 13, in Christ Church. Funeral arrangements are by the Dewhirst and Conte Funeral Home of North Andover.

Apples

While Massachusetts is known as "McIntosh Country," other varieties grown and enjoyed locally include Cortland, Red and Golden Delicious, Macoun, Rome, Baldwin, Gravenstein and Northern Spy.

Small quantities of apples should be refrigerated or stored in a plastic bag with a few perforated holes to allow air into the bag so the apples can breathe. Store large quantities in a cool, dark place.

Apples are a primary source of quick energy from natural fruit sugars and are low in calories with only 70 calories per medium-size apple.

Apples are a traditional crop in the Bay State, as John Winthrop, First Governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, imported apples from England in 1629. Another Massachusetts Governor, John Endicott, planted the first nursery of young fruit trees at Danvers.

New Counseling Group Needs Executive Director

The newly-organized Interfaith Counseling Service of Andover Inc. is accepting applications for an executive director.

In response to the interest of local clergy, a group of citizens, clergy of all faiths and local mental health providers, spent several months researching the need for pastoral counseling in the Andover area.

"Increasingly, it sounds as if people go to their church person for help when they are overwhelmed," said Joyce Andrews, president of the organization's board of trustees. "And some of them (clergy) say they don't feel they have the training for it."

Members of the initial steering committee visited several pastoral counseling centers to find out what would best meet the needs of the Andover community. A formal board has since been formed and the group has been incorporated as a non-profit organization.

Andrews said the board is planning on late fall or early winter as a starting date. She said Interfaith Counseling will combine the healing resources of psychology and faith in providing clinical and spiritual help to anyone of any faith from the greater Andover community. The organization will work with local hospitals, schools, congregations and other groups in the area.

"We want to provide a link between the mental health and faith communities here," Andrews said. She said every church and temple leader the board contacted agreed to serve on the advisory board of the new organization.

Andrews said the board is looking for an executive director who has been trained both clinically and theologically.

"We don't expect they'll be a religious person or an ordained person, but will have a spiritual element to them," she said.

The position is part time. The person chosen will then hire additional staff members, said Andrews, a retired psychologist.

For more information, write to Interfaith Counseling at 25 Central St.

Rosh Hashanah At Andover Temple

Rosh Hashanah, the beginning of the Jewish year, will be ushered in with a service on Wednesday, Sept. 23, at 8:15 p.m. at Temple Emanuel, Haggets Pond Road, Andover. The New Year on the religious calendar is different from other Jewish festivals in that it does not commemorate historic events in the life of the Jewish people.

Rosh Hashanah ushers in a ten-day period of penitence which culminates in the fast of Yom Kippur. Thus, unlike the merry-making which surround the approach of January 1, it is greeted in a spirit of solemnity. Rosh Hashnanah is devoted to retrospection and spiritual inventory; a day given to serious contemplation of the basic questions involved in man's existence. It is a time for self judgment and self-appraisal

Danneman Ouster Upheld

Selectmen Support Town Manager's Decision

By Lewis C. Howe

George Danneman was refused reinstatement to the Andover Housing Partnership Committee (AHPC) after the citizen advocate made an impassioned presentation to the Board of Selectmen Monday night.

"Our form of government is a 'strong town manager' charter," explained Selectman William Dalton. "The selectmen set policy, we do not implement policy. That's the town manager's decision."

Kenneth Mahony, town manager, "made a decision" to remove Danneman from the AHPC, Dalton continued, and under the charter the selectmen should back him.

Claiming Mahony fired him from the volunteer housing group "unfairly, and with no just cause," Danneman defended himself against charges made by town officials that he opposes affordable housing in Andover.

Speaking before a crowd of approximately 100 mostly-supportive residents, Danneman read transcripts from hearings on the Abbot's Pond comprehensive permit proposal and the minutes of a February Planning Board meeting. The documents had been used by Mahony as evidence for Danneman's dismissal. "My statements were not anti-affordable housing statements," Danneman said, "it was a statement against unscrupulous developers who use the (comprehensive permit) law to their own ends."

The transcripts quoted Danneman as saying "I would like to urge the board and town people here tonight to join together with other town governments and townspeople to fight for the repeal of the entire comprehensive permit process."

Town officials said such statements could be used against Andover in the event of a developer lawsuit, and would damage the AHPC's credibility as a committee designed to assist in the development of affordable housing. Mahony, reached for comment on Tuesday, said "I have done what I felt was required of me to do, within the law."

Danneman, 52 Jenkins Road, said the Massachusetts comprehensive permit statute, which allows developers to skirt local zoning bylaws for the purpose of constructing affordable housing, is too often "abused by profiteering developers" who "ram through" projects which are detrimental to the surrounding community.

"I believe this is an unfair and autocratic law. I disapproved of the density of these projects," Danneman commented. "Are we increasing the density of these proposals for builder profit or for affordable housing?"

The former AHPC member also refuted charges he had "slowed down the progress" of the committee by questioning proposals that had gone through the review process prior to the housing group's formation. He cited comments by Joseph Flatley, Director of the Massachusetts Housing Partnership (MHP), and State Representative Susan Tucker (D-Andover) supporting his contention that the AHPC has the right to comment on previous proposals.

When the housing committee was formed, Danneman remarked, "we were not told the process we were to follow." With Tucker's help, he said, "we got state experts' opinions on this."

> 'Our form of government is a "strong town manager" charter. The selectmen set policy; we do not implement policy. That's the town manager's decision.'
> William Dalton, selectman

Previously, Danneman noted, "all we knew was what town officials told us. They said 'there's nothing the town can do until we reach the (state-mandated) ten percent (affordable housing) level.' Now, we have been educated. We know there is something we can do."

"I rebut all the charges against me," he concluded. "I believe I should be reinstated immediately."

Following Danneman's soliloquoy, numerous residents spoke out, urging the selectmen and the Town Manager to reinstate him. Chris Holmes, a member of the volunteer parking committee and a self-described "George Danneman fan," lambasted the selectmen for not reinstating the ousted AHPC member. "There is a problem of perception here, that because George was active, because George was right, that because he was perceptive, we got rid of him."

The selectmen refused to answer residents' questions during the presentation. Chairman Gerald Silverman repeatedly pointed out "this is not a public hearing, it's a citizen's petition and presentation." Holmes accused the board of "hiding" by not engaging in verbal warfare with the residents.

"I am also upset," Holmes added, "with (the selectmen) for not informing us more about the comprehensive permits. Why were we told 'there's nothing we can do' about them? How come we weren't told about 'friendly and unfriendly' permits?"

A friendly comprehensive permit is when the town assists the developer in the project, while an unfriendly permit does not have community cooperation.

Olivier Goulet, 119 North St., assailed the "intimidation" of residents who work on town committees as a repercussion of Danneman's dismissal. He also echoed Holmes' complaint, saying Stephen Colyer, town Physical Planner, had told him "we couldn't fight the comprehensive permits, and that the town works with the developer on the project."

Sharon Heller, a member of the Ballardvale Village Improvement Society (BVIS), a citizen group currently fighting the Ballard View comprehensive permit, asked the board "why was George removed for remarks he made last February, before he was appointed to the committee? Why weren't they so serious then? And if they were, why was he appointed to the committee at all?"

"The comprehensive permit law looks good on paper, but it stinks in reality," Heller quipped. "They (developers) ram these things down our throat, and our zoning and planning are destroyed." The law, she said, is "easily abused. That's what concerns us."

"The ramifications of his removal," Heller commented, "are that if committee members speak out in an unpopular way, or embarrass the selectmen, they'll be smeared across the front page of the papers. Why must we muzzle committee members?"

Anne Belanger, a resident of North Street, also called for Danneman's reinstatement. "Why don't you listen to the people," she asked the selectmen, "instead of letting the developers and the town manager run this town?"

Christopher Haynes, a member of the AHPC, supported Mahony's decision to remove Danneman, saying "upon review of Danneman's statements (to the ZBA and the Planning Board in February), I began wondering if George was listenng to himself talk, and if he knew what he was saying."

Havnes criticized Danneman and his followers for

Bancroft Computer And Accessories Stolen, Then Recovered

By Lewis C. Howe

Just three weeks after 262 computers were installed in Andover schools, a break-in at the Bancroft Elementary School resulted in the theft of a single computer and computer accessories. The computer was recovered Tuesday morning when a Bancroft student found it hidden under an outdoor staircase behind the school building.

A stereo system, donated to the school by the Bancroft PTO, was also taken during last weekend's break. That equipment has not been returned.

Andover police said the break-in occurred "sometime between Sunday and Monday" on the west side of the building. The school was checked on Sunday morning, police said, and the computer was reported stolen when the building opened on Monday morning.

A police department spokesman said entry was gained through a 3 x 3 foot window that was smashed by the culprits. No arrests have been made, and the detective division is investigating.

Iora Alexander, Bancroft principal, explained the perpetrators "used the back staircase, broke a window, and got into the music room, where the stereo was." She said the computer was taken from an adjacent classroom. "The computer may have been left behind," the principal said, because whoever took it could not manage to carry it through the woods surrounding the building.

"We honestly don't know what happened," said Alexander, adding any theories about the break are "purely speculation at this time."

Items reported stolen include one computer, a monitor, a printer, a disk drive, a power cord and a stereo system with two speakers. The dollar value of the equipment was unknown, police said.

Alexander said the installation of computers in Andover schools has led to a need for tighter security at all school buildings in town. "I asked for increased police surveillance before school opened" she commented, "and I wrote to the Assistant Superintendent of Operations (Francis Paul), asking for the installation of a security system."

Paul toured the scene of the break on Monday, and assured Alexander a security system for the Bancroft school will be forthcoming. Paul said he has made building safety one of his goals for the academic year.

"This building (Bancroft) is very isolated," Alexander noted, "and it needs a security system. We've been talking about installing something like this for a long time."

First graders start school

The teacher stands in front of a sea of eager faces.

"This is your first day of school, your first day of first grade, your first time at Bancroft School," she says.

"Not for me!" a shrill voice pipes up from the back.

The teacher gives a pained expression.

But for many of her first-grade students, it was the beginning of an academic career in the Andover school system. And they were off to a good start, according to the elementary schools' teachers and principals.

"It went very smoothly," said Iora Alexander, Bancroft principal. Bancroft Elementary got some extra help from Phillips Academy volunteers like Martha Alexander (no relation to the principal), a junior from Illinois, who helped keep the kids in line—literally and figuratively speaking.

At South School, the three first grade classes at recess played on the merry-go-round and made new friends until the playground supervisor rang a bell. And like Pavlov's dogs, all the kids went, single file, back into the building.

Six sheet cakes at Sanborn School went fast when the students celebrated the start of their school's 25th year. After the morning assembly, it was back to business as the kids disbanded to go to their classes.

Every Sanborn student may have eaten a piece of cake, but opening day at West Elementary went like one, according to Principal Jack Coyle.

"Everybody got to where they were supposed to be with no screaming, no crying," Coyle said. "It was like we had never been away."

What's At Issue

George Danneman had his day in court so to speak when he appeared before selectmen Monday night urging them to convince Town Manager Kenneth Mahony to continue his membership on the Andover Housing Partnership Committee.

Danneman was given his opportunity to speak as a courtesy since the selectmen had little recourse in the matter. The appointment is Mahony's.

But Danneman is a hero to many of the affordable housing opponents and they joined him in his Monday night appearance lending support in raucous fashion.

Frankly, it would appear that the time has come for the community to come to grips with this affordable housing issue. Andover must conform to state regulations by providing some low and moderate income housing within its borders.

There is little doubt of the necessity for such units in view of the fact that there isn't a house in Andover under $100,000, which is a bit much for a young couple just starting out in life.

What is promised within the confines of the low-moderate income housing units are some starting at around $78,000, which could well be within affordability range for some.

There is, of course, inherent fears by some Andover residents as to what such units will look like, what type of people they may attract, how long the residents will remain in Andover.

All of this is obtains to the usual feeling of many an Andover resident, namely I'm here, let's put up the fence and keep the rest of the world away.

It is a particularly improper attitude.

Many of those opposing the comprehensive permit process for projects currently under consideration indicate they are not violently opposed to the theory, just the manner in which the projects will be carried out.

Roughly translated it means why not upgrade the low-moderate units to somehwere in the $100,000 and beyond category which will insure maintenance of the Andover image.

It just isn't going to happen.

What would be much better is to have a group of people working together to get the affordable units into town in order that young people born and educated here may remain in the community as they begin new lives.

At current prices such an opportunity is out of the question for many.

Working together to resolve problems within the community often accomplishes much more than fostering definite opposition with no room for compromise.

And, definitely, very little is accomplished through head-hunting expeditions as took place Monday night.

DOWN THE YEARS

75 Years Ago — September 1912

As in former years, many local people attended the Reading-Wakefield fair held this week. The fair was an unusually good one, the various exhibits being of a high standard.

The Royals will play their final and most important game of the season next Saturday afternoon, when they will meet the Centipedes of Lawrence at Riverside Park in that city.

The work of remodeling and repairing the Metropolitan has been completed and the store is now up to date in every respect. A telephone has been installed and facilities increased for the serving of ice cream, sodas, cakes, etc.

The work of manual training in the schools has been commenced this week under the direction of the new instructor, Mr. Lunt.

The Swanton farm on Salem St. has been purchased by Henry B. Prescott of the Boston Ice. Co.

50 Years Ago — September 1937

Edward D. Sirois, Republican, and Lawrence Connery, Democratic, winners of the Congressional nominations in the seventh congressional district, also led the field in the primary Tuesday.

The annual fall conference of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters will be held here on October 5.

Rev. and Mrs. Herman C. Johnson were tendered a reception on Wednesday evening by their new parishioners at the Free church parish house.

Chats about the big leagues, politics, etc. are to be taboo at the police box located now at the center of the edge of Elm Square. A new box has been built, with the words painted thereon: "Please do not visit the officer."

David L. Nicoll and William J. Stewart, were appointed regular police officers at a special meeting of the Board of Selectmen on Tuesday evening.

25 Years Ago — September 1962

Sixty percent of the town's eligible voters turned out for the primary Tuesday, in a demonstration of interest in the selection of candidates for November's election.

Lovejoy Road will be closed down for a half-hour each morning, while youngsters walk to the Henry C. Sanborn school.

The Finance Committee has authorized Chief Henry L. Hilton to call for bids on a new ambulance.

The selectmen are now waiting for word from two appointed committees concerning Urban Renewal.

There are many changes apparent today as Phillips Academy, one of the nation's oldest and largest independent boarding schools, begins its 185th year. The school is bigger than ever, with 840 students, and new dormitories and recitation buildings in operation for the first time.

10 Years Ago — September 1977

Andover's tax rate for the current fiscal year will be $58, a $5 increase. After months of study and debate on establishment of a new water rate schedule for the town, selectmen Monday night approved a flat rate fee for all water users of 71 cents per 100 cubic feet of water.

With the disapproval by the attorney general's office of the dog leash law voted at the annual town meeting, a group, known as the Citizens for Humane Dog Control, have inserted a proposal for consideration at the Oct. 24 town meeting.

A public hearing is scheduled for Sept. 27 at the Sanborn school relative to the proposed project of replacing the present bridge on Tewksbury St. over the railroad tracks.

Selectmen Richard J. Bowen expressed displeasure at the delay in response by the Massachusetts Electric Co. on the town's request for information on costs of incandescent street lighting.

Report To Andover

By Rep. Sue Tucker

When the Dukakis campaign asked me to spend a weekend in Iowa on the presidential trail, I said "yes" without hesitation. I happen to disagree with our Governor on a fair number of issues but I genuinely believe America needs a healthy dose of his integrity and competence at this time.

Those of you who do not care fo Mike Dukakis may have a hard time understanding why I would subject myself to 70 hours of exhaustion on the last weekend before the Legislature reconvenes. I am intrigued by Presidential politics. As in all life's endeavors, there is no learning like doing and no knowing like being where the action is. Right now the action is in Iowa and I want to share some of my observations with you.

• Counting all campaigns (Gephardt, Biden, Jackson, Bush, DuPont, Dole, Simon, Gore), there are more field organizers, press people and political operatives in Iowa right now than there are voters. Most of these campaign workers are under age 25, due to the fact that pay is peanuts and only the young could bear the hours and demands. These staffers are well-educated, bright, dedicated and inspiring. Inspiring because they care about our country and they take the "high road" with folks from other campaigns. Political difference is healthy: it's political indifference that hurts.

• Party activists in Iowa agree that our system for selecting candidates is bizarre—too long and too expensive. Yet, they revel in the attention they receive due to the fact that a good showing in Iowa in 4½ months is critical to a candidate's ability to attract funds and media attention. Where else can a citizen get active in politics then demand a personal interview with a Presidential candidate (or, at the very least, the spouse)?

• Anyone who thinks Iowans are "backwoods" is sadly mistaken. The crowds I addressed asked the best questions and had the most commons sense I have heard in a long time. Furthermore, they can smell a fake from 100 yards because they are sophisticated voters who have heard it all. In other words, as long as we have a "bellweather" state in Presidential politics, I am comfortable with the fact that it is Iowa.

• I bought several tickets to a hog raffle at the county fair and prayed I wouldn't win. I didn't.

• The teachers and environmental groups I met with in Iowa have precisely the same concerns as their Massachusetts counterparts. Isn't it time for some national leadership on protecting our drinking water and educating our children.

• In a Presidential campaign people all over America open their homes to supporters, give their energy, money and time on the single gut gamble that they have a candidate who will "do them proud." What a marvelous country!

• Finally, you might be interested in the true story of how our Governor is being received in Iowa. In a word, fantastic. It's very early and "undecided" is the largest bloc by far, as it should be. However, all political indicators—key people, raising funds, early polls—show Dukakis at or near the top in Iowa. My personal political indicator was gratifying indeed: at a big county gathering Saturday night, I got a bigger hand than Senator Biden's wife!

Warriors Open Friday

By Daryl Arsenault

After completing a successful preseason (3-0), the Andover High School football team looks forward to a very important first game of the season against Chelmsford on Friday evening at 7 p.m. at Eugene Lovely field.

Both teams have been rated near the top of the Merrimack Valley Conference, with may returning veterans, including experienced backs and massive linemen.

During the preseason, Andover continued to look more impressive with each scrimmage. The first scrimmage, against Marlboro, was the toughest. The Division I school matched well against Andover size-wise and Andover won by a single touchdown, 3-2.

Under the lights at the Bedford scrimmage, Andover ran the ball well and the experienced linemen controlled the line of scrimmage both offensively and defensively. Andover ran the ball into the end zone three times to win, 3-0.

On Saturday, the Bucaneers from Wellesley were overmatched by Andover in both size and speed. Andover controlled every phase of the game and won the scrimmage handily.

Friday night's game promises to be an exciting one. In what is being viewed as one of the biggest match-ups of the season, Andover Captains Devon Arsenault, Craig Buscema, Steve D'Urso and John Perry will lead the local eleven against Chelmsford.

The fine supporting cast of Andover athletes includes Brandon McCue, Mark Duncan, Mike "Jersey" Marinaro, Stefan "Hefty" Kelly, Scott Carleton, Paul DeMarco, Chris Onufer, John Dorsey, and defensive stalwarts Peter Vehlow, Tom Murray and Steve Surrette.

Andover boasts one of their biggest lines in history, with an average of 225 lbs. per man. The locals hope this will offset Chelmsford's impressive line and quick backfield that has made them a favorite in the MVC.

If Andover can control Chelmsford's power game, they could take a giant step towards a Merrimack Valley title.

Marquis Named To Conn. Team

Melissa Marquis, daughter of James and Sandra Tenaglia of Andover and a graduate of Andover High School, has been named to the women's cross country team at Connecticut College for the 1987 fall season.

A sophomore, Marquis is a member of third-year Coach Ned Bishop's team that earned a perfect 8-0 mark in 1986. She earned the Camels' Most Improved Runner Award as a rookie last year and the Most Improved Award for CONN's women's track team last spring.

"Last season the Camel cross country team was 25-5 overall. Season highlights included a 27-28 first-ever win over Trinity (CT) College, a third-place finish in the Rhode Island College Invitational, a 13-team event, and a sixth-place showing at the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC) championships.

Indian Ridge Net Teams Successful

The boys and girls junior teams at Indian Ridge Country Club wrapped up another successful summer season, competing in the North Shore Junior League.

The boys, under the coaching of head tennis pro Brian McNalley, won the league title for the fourth year in a row. The boys defeated Thomson Country Club by four total games after spliting the six matches 3-3. The 12-year-old doubles team of Jeff Forlizzi and Steve Kokinos came up with the decisive three-set win. Indian Ridge defeated Meadow Brook in the finals 4-2. Jeff Hechemy (16s) and Eric Block (12s) posted single wins while Block and Chris Troianello (14s) and Forlizzi and Kokinos (12s) won the doubles.

Mike Tiberii was junior boys champion in the junior club championship tournament, defeating Adam Guild in the finals.

Eric Block received the most improved player award, Rickie Metropolis was best sportsman and Josh Goodman won the coach's award.

Other members of the boys' team are Chris Davis, Jeff Davis, Rob Wyatt, Mike Famigletti, Billy Ryan, David Burke, K.C. Carpenter and Scott Ginsberg.

The girls, coached by assistant pro Laura Goodman, experienced a rebuilding year, but showed a great deal of promise. They finished with a 2-3 record and missed qualifying for the playoffs by one place in the league standings.

Andrea Georgian defeated Lisa Fox in the junior club championship. Kim Heller received the most improved player award, Tina Colucci was best sportsman and Kristen Carpenter won the coach's award.

Other team members were Heather Ryan, Tara Ryan, Alyssa Ginsberg, Allison Georgian, Martha Vehlow, Liz Wyatt, Meaghan Nix, Tracey Goodman, Mindy Fox, Kristen Grish, Keri Mazonson and Larisa Willey.

Jeff Hechemy and Mindy Fox defeated Steve Kokinos and Allison Georgian for the championship in the first ever junior mixed doubles tournament.

County Net Tourney Held

The Essex County men's singles and doubles tennis championships were held over Labor Day weekend at the Willows Racquet Club, Turnpike Street, North Andover, with a very strong field of contenders seeking the titles at this oldest (began in 1903) event on the New England tennis circuit.

Former Andover resident, Chris Post (trained by his father, Gerald Post of 9 Beech Circle), playing for the 14th straight year in this tournament, gained a position in the finals but was defeated by Paul Gastonguay of Lewiston, Maine, a Bates College junior. The winning score was 6-1, 3-6, 6-1.

Gastonguay thus wins his first title in his second appearance here (he lost the quarterfinal in 1986 to Joachim Hammer of West Germany in a hard-fought, three-set match) while Post has won three times (1979, 1982 and 1985) as well as being runner-up on a record six occasions between 1976 and this year.

Andover was also represented by Warren Patterson of Cheever Circle who played well but in a losing cause against Dave Maxwell of Acton.

The doubles was won by Keith Collar of Revere and John DeDomenico of Billerica, runners-up in 1984 and 1985. They won a lengthy victory over Sam Harper of Chestnut Hill and Tom Glenn of Burlington, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3.

The 31 contestants were well managed and conditions kept to their liking by a committee composed of nine Rockwells: Tim and Maria of 175 Elm St. and North Andover's Mabel, Charlene; Tom, Shawn, Bill, Brad and Tyler.

Rosh Hashanah

in determining where we have failed to live up to obligations to God and duties to our fellowman.

Rosh Hashanah is also called Yom Hazikkoron, "Day of Remembrance," for on this day, tradition tells us, God remembers all his creatures and carefully weighs the merits and shortcomings of each individual. Because He judges them accordingly and determines the fate for each for the coming year, Rosh Hashanah is also known as Yom Hadin, "Day of Judgment."

Constitution

Two years after it was signed in 1787, the Constitution was put into the custody of the newly created Department of State. In 1800, the government shipped the document by boat down the Delaware River and up the Potomac to the District of Columbia. In the summer of 1814, just ahead of the British troops marching on the capital, the Constitution and other priceless documents were packed in linen bags and hidden overnight in an old barn in Virginia. Although the Constitution made it safely back to Washington, D.C., it wasn't on public display until 80 years later.

The United States Constitution is safely on display in the National Archives in Washington, D.C. today.

No person on planet earth has ever lived to be one Neptune year old. A Neptune year is the time it takes the planet Neptune to revolve once around the sun, or 164.8 earth years.

Florence St Properties Face Zoning Decisions

By Lewis C. Howe

Florence St. will be host to two more rental housing units if the Zoning Board of Appeals rules in favor of two separate petitions presented by landlords at the September 3 ZBA meeting.

Charles A. Papalia of North Andover asked for permission to add a third apartment to the house he owns at 20-22 Florence St. The proposed third-floor unit is currently serving as storage space for tenants residing on the first and second floors.

Construction of the additional apartment would require slight roof alterations, Papalia said. The proposed unit would have a separate entrance from those on the lower floors, with all three tenants sharing a common hallway. The house's driveway would be expanded to allow for six parking spaces, or two per tenant. The building's foundation would not be disturbed.

Following Papalia's hearing, Jeffrey Sheehy petitioned the board to allow the building of a similar addition next door, at 24 Florence St. Sheehy's plans call for a fourth apartment to be added to the three-tenant house. The addition, to be located over the house's garage, would not meet minimum building setback requirements.

Sheehy's proposal consists of a one-bedroom apartment, a connection between separately-standing structures, an enclosed stairway to the new unit, plus storage space underneath.

The developer stated there would be "adequate" parking at the site, with two spaces allotted for the two-bedroom units on the ground floor, and one space for the one-bedroom units above.

"I would assume the general purpose of this construction would be additional income?" Chairman Wesley Whitney asked.

"Frankly," Sheehy responded, "I get a loditional income?" Chairman Wesley Whitney asked.

"Frankly," Sheehy responded, "I get a lot of calls for apartments. There is an obvious need for affordable housing in this town."

"We know," quipped Whitney. "Are you sure you don't want to apply for a comprehensive permit?"

The only residential concern expressed was by Margaret Cronin, who said approval of additional rental housing would create "a dangerous precedent." She argued use of garage space for housing goes against "the intended use" of the space.

Whitney asked the two men facetiously "are we just generally upgrading Florence St. tonight?"

Whitney then asked both petitioners if they objected to the others' plans. "No," Sheehy said. "We want to be good neighbors."

The Zoning Board also conducted eight other hearings this month.

Robert and Susan Stocks of Tewksbury requested permission to construct a single additional building at 469 South Main St. The lot does not meet minimum setback requirements and does not conform to the 90 percent rule. The site is partially wetlands, and Whitney asked the Stocks' attorney to write a letter of explanation to the board "so we don't walk into the wetlands" when examining the site.

John Dugger, representing John Winters, presented a petition to allow an indoor storage area to be built for equipment at the Andover Small Engines property, 90 School St. The addition will be "inocuous," Dugger said, because it faces a wall, and he added abuttors would be "overjoyed" not to have to view equipment being stored outdoors at the site. The storage area would not meet minimum setback requirements.

Stephen Asgeirson was constructing a deck and den addition to his home at 14 Glenwood Road Extension when he received a cease and desist order from the Building Inspector's Office. He petitioned the board as a party aggrieved by the building inspector, to allow construction of a 10 feet by 16 feet deck, a den, and to enlarge a bedroom.

Jeff Picard, 8 Glenwood Road Extension, voiced concerns about the effects of new construction on wetlands in the area, but also said "I'm in favor of any house in that area being renovated."

John and Mary Myers requested approval of a 12 and one-half foot extension to their home in order to enlarge their kitchen and to create an additional bedroom. Since the house at 34 School St. is already nonconforming to zoning regulations, Whitney said further extension of a nonconforming structure is allowed under town bylaws.

Mav Elander requested permission to con-

Policy Is Unreasonable

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

Just to bring up a few points concerning the recently-approved attendance policy, I feel the need to express how unreasonable it is.

I realize there is an attendance problem and it must be resolved, but this is not the way. First of all, as I recall, "It is an inconvenience for a teacher to give students make-up work." Well, how inconvenient is it for students who have a substitute teacher who does not know or teach the subject?

Second of all, how often do teachers assign make-up work other than after lengthy absences due to severe illness? If a student is absent for a day or two, he/she is responsible for making up his/her work. Who is the school for—the teachers or the students?

Next we have the five-day absentee plan. I understand if we are absent for five days or more in one term without doctors' notes or other excuses, we fail for the term.

Does this mean if I have a flu or one of those 24-hour bugs, I must go to a doctor, pay the fee, which means $25 or more, every time to get a note? Or should I attend school and spread my virus so my peers can pay for an unnecessary note?

Now to comment on the tardy-after-eight policy. I hope they weren't serious about having parents go into the school with their tardy child. First of all, what if both parents work or if there are several babies or young children in the family. "Load up the car, we have to bring so and so to school today."

It is the student's responsibility to arrive to school on time and not a hassle for parents if they don't. Not only will this cause a detainment for their destination, but where will all these people park?

With all of these tardy students, I believe the number was 80 per day, that's 80 more cars within a couple of hours each day. Don't you recall we haven't resolved the parking situation yet?

Eye Care Project

More than 2,500 Massachusetts residents, have taken advantage of the National Eye Care Project - a special program designed to provide medical and surgical eye care to low-income older Americans at no out-of-pocket expense.

As a result of the Project's first year of operation in the state, eye physicians diagnosed and treated a variety of potentially blinding eye diseases, including 547 cases of cataracts (clouding of the lens of the eye) and 54 cases of flaucoma (an increase in fluid pressure within the eye). Some of those who received eye examinations had never been to an eye physician before.

U.S. citizens or legal residents aged 65 or over who are disadvantaged and do not have access to an ophthalmologist (a physician or surgeon who specializes in eye care) are eligible to participate in the National Eye Care Project, sponsored nationally by the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and statewide by the Massachusetts Society of Eye Physicians and Surgeons.

Local elderly residents can call the National Eye Care Project's toll-free Helpline weekedays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for a referral to an ophthalmologist in their area.

Danneman

"politicizing a very difficult subject." The AHPC was formed as a function of "the existence of the comprehensive permit law," he pointed out. "Andover will have affordable housing, and it will be done through this process until the state and the town come up with some other method."

"The local League of Women Voters and their officers, and George, do the town a disservice by opposing comprehensive permits," Haynes said. "The comprehensive permit is the very thing that makes affordable housing possible in Andover. If people on the (AHPC) committee disagree, I ask you to resign and save yourself from further embarrassment."

Jean Salazar, an AHPC member and president of the local League of Women Voters, responded by saying "while I now believe we can produce some good affordable housing with comprehensive permits if we use it properly, last February I did make some statements—so if you want to fire me from the committee you have to do that, too."

After the residents had their say, Danneman made a final statement. "I believe I can still be effective," he said when selectman Gail Ralston asked if he would ever be able to perform serviceably for the AHPC. "I will let bygones be bygones and get on with working to get Andover affordable housing. Please give me that chance and reinstate me."

Ralston sided with Danneman in her remarks. "When George went into Mr. Mahony's office (September 3), his letter of dismissal was already prepared. He never had a chance to respond."

According to the town charter, Ralston said, "the town manager did nothing illegal, but that doesn't mean it's right and it doesn't mean I don't have a problem with it."

Ralston urged members of all town committees to "hang in there and believe in the town." She said "all committees have a very valid place in this town, and I rely on their recommendations to formulate an opinion."

"I don't believe it was Danneman's actions alone that delayed the (affordable housing) process," Ralston stated. "He didn't act on his own in asking the state for help, he had the support of the AHPC."

Ralston, who abstained from a consent agenda motion that named John O'Brien to the AHPC in Danneman's place, blamed town officials for not giving "proper guidance" to the committee. She said the manner in which Danneman was dismissed made her "uncomfortable at best."

"I don't believe George is against affordable housing," Ralston said. "Many people in town believe George articulates their concerns, and I'd like to see him reinstated."

Ralston's comments drew applause from the audience, but statements by Dalton and Selectman Charles Wesson supporting Mahony's town-chartered right to remove Danneman drew vocal opposition."

Wesson tried to be diplomatic, saying "this one's a close decision. This has been one of the most difficult nights I've had to endure on this board. But," he concluded, "we have nothing more to do than to support the town manager."

"Recall," screamed a voice from the back. "Who runs the show?" demanded another struct a screen porch and handicapped access at her 1 Henderson Avenue home. Abuttor Thomas Lynch asked the board if another portion of Elander's property would not be more feasible for the porch, as present designs violate minimum side yard setback requirements. "I'm concerned about the distance between our homes," Lynch commented.

Timothy Kenney, 5 Hillcrest Road, sought a variance from the board for the addition of two bedrooms to his ranch-style home. The dwelling does not have frontage on a public way.

Other cases heard by the ZBA were Arthur Awley's petition to allow him to reconstruct his "deteriorating" garage at 16 Avon St., and Mark Courtney's petition to add a backyard deck to his home at 93 North Main St. No opposition was voiced to either proposal.

The ZBA made site inspections of each lot in question on Saturday, September 12, and will render decisions on the petitions in time for the board's October meeting.

The board also announced its decisions from its August hearings. A variance was granted to Ronald J. Hill, 15 Abbot St., for the purpose of constructing an addition to his home. The improvements consist of an expanded kitchen, a family room and a master bedroom.

Variances were also granted to John Spires, 9-11 Brechin Terrace, to replace his old garage with a new wood structure; to George Jones, 78 Carmel Road, for a vestibule for front door weather shelter; to John and Allison Godek, 71 River Road, for the use of an in-law apartment to care for an elderly relative; and to Future Shape of Andover, 1 Elm Square, for construction of a sign not facing the street.

The ZBA rejected a petition by Ellsworth Long, 9 Howell Drive, who had petitioned the board to allow a boarding or rooming house at 44 Whittier St. Long's plan had met with stiff opposition from neighborhood residents.

faceless accuser. "Wait until the elections," threatened one voter.

In an effort to restore order, Silverman pounded his gavel and addressed the crowd. "We are a government of laws, not men," he said. "When you become a government of men, you've got a problem. We as a board must govern by the town bylaws, until such time as they are changed."

"George is saying the things you want to hear," selectman William Downs told the hostile residents. "But what you ask is for us to violate the town charter."

Silverman then adjourned the meeting while the residents grumbled. After it was over, Danneman commented only that he was "very disappointed that the selectmen chose not to recommend to the Town Manager that he rescind his decision and reinstate me."

Holland's Flower Shoppe: Extra Touch Florists

Owners Kathy and Mike Holland

Do you have a special occasion coming up? Having the Boss to dinner? Or, your in-laws coming for a visit?

Nothing dresses up your home as beautifully as bouquets or arrangements of fresh cut flowers. And, fresh cut flowers are the specialty of Holland's Flower Shoppe, located at 139 Main St., North Andover.

Three years ago, Kathy and Mike Holland opened Holland's Flower Shoppe vowing to offer their customers the freshest flowers available and they have succeeded.

You'll find roses in beautiful hues of pink, peach, white, yellow and red shipped directly to Holland's from Colorado. Varying shades of alstroemaria, rubrum lillies and freesia flown directly from Holland to Holland's. They are sprayed with floral preservatives and packed in ice, thus assuring you of the freshest cut flowers available.

Kathy Holland (nee Brennan) was brought up and schooled in Andover and knows the "taste" of the area. She and Mike, along with their staff of five employees, offer freshly created arrangements in their Cash and Carry department, using a variety of flowers and greens for those customers requiring an immediate arrangement, such as for a last minute gift.

A wedding on the horizon? Drop in and discuss the plans with Kathy. She will show you the latest in bride and attendants bouquets, church and reception flowers. Whether contemporary or traditional, sophisticated or simple, you can count on Holland's to create for you, an exquisite, one-of-a-kind bouquet for the most romantic and elegant occasion of you life. Wedding invitations, reply cards, napkins and matchbooks are also available.

Avruch To Host Awards Program

Frank Avruch, host of Channel 5's "The Great Entertainment" series, will host Merrimack College's 1987 St. Augustine Awards Dinner on Friday evening, Oct. 2, at the Sheraton Rolling Green Inn in Andover.

The St. Augustine Awards were established by Merrimack in 1985 to honor alumni of Merrimack and individuals who have contributed to the spiritual, cultural and economic life of the Merrimack Valley region. This year's recipients are Guilmo Barrio, Gerald Camuso (Merrimack class of 1972), James McBride (Merrimack class of 1967) and Mrs. Patricia Recesso.

The recipients, selected from among nominations submitted by residents of the valley as well as by members of the Merrimack College community, will be presented the awards by Rev. John E. Deegan, O.S.A., president of the North Andover Catholic college. The medal bears the name and likeness of the great teacher and bishop, St. Augustine, founder of the order of priests and brothers who staff the college and several parishes in the valley.

Avruch, a favorite of New England television viewers for more than 25 years, has been with WCVB-TV since the station went on the air in 1972. For the past 13 years he has hosted "The Great Entertainment," a weekend film series of classic movies from the 1930s, 40s and 50s. Avruch introduces and offers intermission commentary and background on the films.

For eight years he co-hosted "New England Sunday," Channel 5's live Sunday morning talk/variety program. He interviewed hundreds of political figures, celebrities, authors and other personalities.

A native Bostonian, Avruch attended the University of Missouri's School of Journalism and completed his B.S. in communications at Boston University in 1949. He began his broadcasting career at WVCM in Boston and WNEB in Worcester. He joined WHDH-TV in 1955 and was the original star of the highly successful syndicated children's series "Bozo the Clown" for 12 years. In that role, he traveled around the world on behalf of UNICEF, the United Nation's Children's Fund.

Avruch has received numerous awards and honors, including an Emmy Award in 1981 for his work on Channel 5's fire and safety series, "Where There's Smoke." He has also been honored by the Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts for his tireless work for many charities. Governor Dukakis named him state chairman for the International Year of the Child in 1978.

The St. Augustine Awards Dinner and Presentation will begin with a reception at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets for the banquet may be purchased through the Office for Institutional Advancement.

Exchange Club To Induct Officers

The Exchange Club of the Andovers will hold its annual Induction of Officers Night at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Sutton Street, North Andover, on Tuesday, Nov. 22, at 7 p.m. This year's officers includes Ron Landry, president; Tony Longo, president-elect; Jeff Donahue, treasurer; and Bill Tomkiewicz, secretary.

Exchange is the oldest service organization in the country, dedicating its efforts to the youth of the nation. The Exchange Club of the Andovers has presented awards and scholarships to several deserving students of both communities. The club has also instituted a child indentification program for the lower elementary students which is implemented through the efforts of the North Andover Police Department. This year the club hopes to begin a program of recognition for students in grades 7 and 8. The program is known as the Young Citizenship Award. Each year the club helps support, through donations, approximately 30 child abuse prevention centers across the nation.

Anyone living or working in North Andover or Andover who would like to be considered for membership should contact Bill Tomkiewicz for an application. The Exchange Club of the Andovers meets on the second and fourth Tuesday of the month at the Knights of Columbus Hall in North Andover.

'Tip' O'Neill To Open Series

Salem State College President James T. Amsler has announced that Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, Jr., the 47th Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, will inaugurate the 1987-88 Salem State College series on Monday, Oct. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at SSC's O'Keefe Center, Canal Street, Salem.

Lesley Stahl, CBS News national affairs correspondent, will deliver the second series lecture on Monday, March 14, 1988, and Israeli statesman and author Abba Eban will give the final lecture of the series on Thursday, April 14.

The SSC Series, now in its sixth season, has brought 15 nationally and internationally prominent speakers to the college community: former presidents Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford; Democratic vice-presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro; ex-U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. Jeane Kirkpatrick; Helmut Schmidt, former Chancellor of West Germany

REALTOR

YOU'VE GOT A NICE FACE...BUT

Do you know what I consider one of the greatest drawbacks of the seller who tries to sell his own home? The fact that most prospects will not confide their objections to the seller's face. I've found that the great preponderance of buyers are gentle, polite and caring individuals. That's the problem. They don't want to insult you.

You may have the nicest face on the block, but a promising buyer may have abruptly decided that he couldn't afford the price of your home and left. He didn't want to hurt your feelings. On the other hand, price is a subject that they WOULD discuss with a Realtor (they do it all the time) who could then show them how it could possibly be financed within their means.

A nice prospect wouldn't dream of telling a nice seller that the carpeting was worn or certain rooms need to be repainted. They'd tell this to a Realtor though, who could arrange to make minor financial adjustments or repairs and save what could have been a lost sale.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

By Beverly Kimball G.R.I.
Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

HOW SHOULD YOU PRICE YOUR HOME?

Interest rates are moving up and sales prices are generally stabalizing right now. It is more important than ever to price your home competitively. How can you best accomplish this?

The first step in selling a home is to contact a professional Realtor for a market analysis. He or she will go over the recent sales of comparable homes in your neighborhood and will give you information about other properties now on the market. You can compare your home to the competition, and your agent can show you how to adjust your price up or down, considering the size, location and condition of your property. Even in a very active market, a price that is too high may frighten off prospective buyers, whether or not you tell your agent that you are willing to negotiate. It can take extra weeks or months to sell, and the final sales price may be lower than if you had started with a more realistic asking price. When we price our listings, it's not just guesswork. Our analyses reflect our experience and expertise in the real estate marketplace.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Realty USA / Schruender Real Estate. Call us at 685-5000 or stop by our offices at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover.

Teachers Group President Tells School Committee Of Concerns

By Karen L. Day

According to Andover Education Association President James Redmond, teachers last year were dissatisfied with working conditions and perceived the administration was ignoring their concerns.

In April, the union brought the teachers' concerns and a list of proposals to the attention of the administration and the School Committee. Some meetings were held to discuss the issues, but overall, Redmond commented, "the dialogue has been spotty."

According to Redmond, results from a Staff Satisfaction Survey of 210 teachers, conducted last spring, showed a high level of dissatisfaction with their situation.

In a presentation to the School Committee Tuesday night, Redmond explained that "Utmost in the minds of the educators was a fear that the condition of the educational system in Andover was suffering—as we were trying to do too much." He was referring to the initiation of numerous new programs "without proper input from staff, without enough lead time for adequate study and preparation, without proper training, and with no end in sight."

According to Redmond, survey results show "real problems exist in every category of the survey." One of the areas teachers felt most poorly about was "Teacher Involvement In Policy Formation," with 71 percent responding that policy decisions were "rarely based on carefully developed research."

Additionally, 83 percent felt that the School Committee placed less relevance on teacher opinion than on community opinion, and 80 percent felt teachers were rarely notified of changes being considered prior to implementation.

Economically, 82 percent felt benefits for teachers were inadequate. Ninety-seven percent contend the school system could provide higher teacher salary, but 70 percent noted that salary schedule provisions are fair.

Redmond went on to discuss other areas of concern. Why some schools are preferable to others for assignment, pay for coaching positions, why teacher committee reports are not utilized, and the fostering of faculty cliques, were just a few.

The union president then made it clear that there "are some brighter moments to the survey as well." Over 80 percent believe their work is important and nearly all have acceptable teaching assignments. Nearly 90 percent praised the association for being active in areas outside teacher salaries, as well.

Redmond commented that "some inroads have already been made." He added that Seifert agreed "we had embarked on a 'too much, too soon' path, that the expectations were too lofty, that the staff was overextended, and that we'd best reconsider our intent."

"The superintendent has set a course for this year which appears at the outset to be attainable, and that course is up front so that everyone is aware of its scope," concluded Redmond. This, he added, should alleviate many of last year's problems.

Redmond explained that various committees have been established for teacher involvement in discussion of issues and Seifert has agreed to attempt offering teacher input opportunity when discussing curriculum development and change.

In addition, Redmond suggested a "Blue Ribbon Panel" of administrators, faculty, parents and school committee members be formed to study the Association's April proposals "in an effort to improve the communication within our system."

Committee members suggested conducting the same survey next spring in order to analyze whether or not progress has actually been made, and agreed discussions should be continued in the meantime. Committee member Margo Tilghman requested the results from other similar communities with which to compare the results.

Redmond answered that "If anything comes from this—room for conversation—then it will have been worth it." He added that data requested by Tilghman could be provided.

In relating an earlier parent comment that the committee was not listening to parent input, and the comment that teachers felt their opinions were being ignored, Ed Accomando, 87 Sunset Road, mused "If these two groups get together, you (the committee members) are in trouble...You're not listening to anyone."

After commenting that the presentation was "a good one," Poore asked the topic be placed on a forthcoming agenda, since the committee had not previously had an opportunity to review the data.
